Unite Against COVID-19

Strengthening PNG's response through private sector collaboration

HUMANITARIAN CRISIS

With 41.6 million cases worldwide and over a million deaths, the rate of COVID-19 infection continues to grow. Alongside the human suffering, the pandemic threatens livelihoods, reverses development and intensifies poverty. Building nationwide resilience to COVID-19 is in the interest of every business in PNG and the customers, employees and communities they serve.

PNG IS AT HIGH RISK

While only 583 confirmed cases of COVID-19 have been recorded to date (October 20, 2020), the actual number of cases may be much higher due to limited national testing capacity. The case for continued vigilance and preparedness in PNG's private sector is compelling. The reliance of key industries on fly-in-fly-out workers significantly increases the risk of imported cases, and the workplace as a potential vector leading to infection in close-knit communities cannot be underestimated. A high disease burden, limited infrastructure and poor access to healthcare leaves PNG vulnerable.

YOU CAN HELP

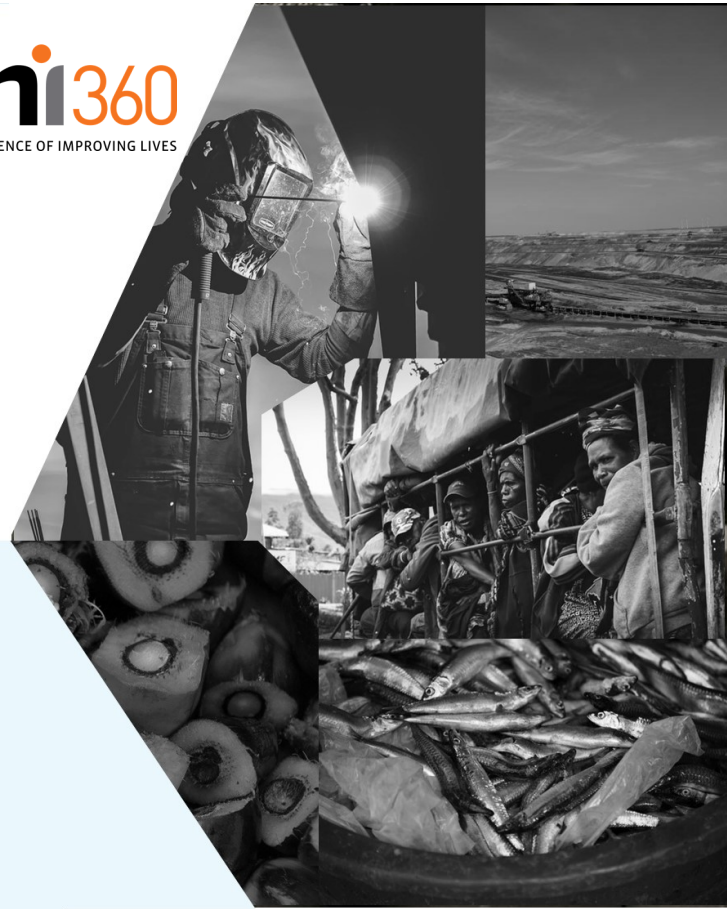

Resilient business operations and supply chains across PNG support the health and security of its people. Your business has the potential to reach employees, customers, suppliers and host communities, presenting a valuable opportunity to generate critical public health awareness. To evaluate how private sector prevention efforts can be most effectively supported, we invite you to complete a confidential 20-minute questionnaire. In addition to insights from the questionnaire, you will be given access to COVID-19 Awareness Materials, Safety Training and Monthly Webinars where health experts from FHI 360 and partners will provide the latest updates on the pandemic both globally and locally.
