

Combat COVID-19 together

Public+private sector partnership to fight the pandemic

HUMANITARIAN CRISIS

With 35.2 million cases worldwide and over a million deaths, the rate of COVID-19 infection continues to grow. Alongside the human suffering, the pandemic threatens livelihoods, reverses development and intensifies poverty. The only effective way to strengthen worldwide resilience is for every person and organization to unite behind strong systems for prevention, preparedness, detection and response.

STRATEGIC PARTNERSHIP

AWR Lloyd and FHI 360, through its subsidiary FHI Partners, which focuses on working with corporations and foundations to accelerate their social impact, have developed a strategic alliance to combat COVID-19 through a merged offering combining FHI 360's epidemiological expertise and practical knowledge of national health systems with AWR Lloyd's deep understanding of business operations and analytics. Together, our alliance has effectively advised private companies on how to protect their workers and mitigate the impact of COVID-19 on their broader stakeholder communities, while maintaining their operations and minimizing COVID-related financial loss.
